The Honorable
Richard M. Nixon
Vice President of the United States
Washington, D. C.

Dear Dick:

I enclose a letter to you from Hamilton Fish Armstrong, whom I believe you know in his capacity as Editor of "Foreign Affairs."

I fully realize the myriad of calls upon you these days, but I agreed to support Ham's request in view of the importance of the subject matter and the impact an article by you would have. You are undoubtedly familiar with the high reputation of "Foreign Affairs," and the fact that an article by you in this Quarterly would have considerable impact and be widely read in influential quarters.

Faithfully yours,

Allen W. Dulles
Director
